

Agreement for Confidentiality in Relationship Counseling

I understand that it is the role of my Bound Together counselor to provide therapeutic services so that I might feel better and/or improve my functioning, especially as it relates to my family and relationship(s). My counselor's role is not intended to gather information for the courts or to make judgments related to my family and my relationship(s).

Therefore, I agree that I will not call upon any employee of Bound Together Counseling to provide treatment records or to testify in a future divorce or custody action. I understand that courts can appoint professionals who have had no prior contact with my family to conduct independent evaluations and make recommendations to the court.

I understand that it is policy of Bound Together Counseling to have no court involvement in my case because that could harm our professional relationship and the ability to achieve my goals. My goals include resolving personal concerns so that I might preserve my relationship(s) and/or achieve my personal goals. Since I need to speak freely, my spouse and any other partners are also agreeing never to ask my Bound Together Counselor to testify or have records of my treatment in court.

By signing this form, all parties agree to not to use any of my therapeutic intervention records or testimony in any future court proceedings.
